I am but a humble, creative human being. I come across as soft-spoken but can raise my voice when needed. I have a solid set of work values and morals that I strongly follow. I believe people should feel comfortable in the workspace, but respect comes first. I am quick on my feet and know how to take control of a situation. I analyze and learn from my mistakes and am always open to learn something new.

I aspire to one day own a production company with my business partner.
